REPARATIONS.

FRANCE EAGER TO OCCUPY RUHR.

"FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE LITTLE STATES."

PARIS, August 18.

The reparations commission yesterday practically decided in principle to send a mission to Berlin to examine the situation on the spot. Meanwhile the French press is suggesting that if the commission does not find agreement within a week direct negotiations may be undertaken between Paris and Berlin.

Le Journal however asserts that the Government has taken resolutions against all eventualities. The occupation of the Ruhr will be carried out within 48 hours without a convocation of parliament if the commission does not reach a satisfactory solution.

The Echo de Paris emphasizes that France's policy towards Germany is not blind violence and says that military occupation must be regarded as a defensive measure for the benefit of the little states of Central and Eastern Europe. The object of economic occupation should be to induce the leaders of industrial Germany to co-operate with a view to reparations payments. The occupation will cease when German payments having become regular the era of great loans involving internationalisation of Germany's debt would be begun.

BELGIUM SUPPORTS FRANCE.

BRUSSELS, August 18.

L'Etat Belge affirms that the Belgian delegate on the reparations commission will support France against the moratorium which will thereby not be granted.

REPARATIONS COMMISSION ACTS.

PARIS, August 18.

The Reparations Commission has unanimously decided to send Sir John Bradbury and M. Maulever, president of the guarantees committee to Berlin to examine the financial situation.

L. O. N. AND WORLD HYGIENE.

BIG SCHEME MADE POSSIBLE.

GENEVA, August 18.

The Hygiene committee of the League of Nations has decided to accept the Rockefeller Foundation's offer of $60,000 yearly for three years to allow an interchange of the staff of public health services in the various countries, and $30,000 yearly for five years to develop an international office for distributing information in regard to epidemics. The interchange of staffs will begin in October. Officials of the various nations will take a fortnight's course at Brussels and will then serve for two years in the health departments of other countries.

FOREST FIRES IN MINNESOTA.

DULUTH (MINNESOTA), August 19.

Forest fires wiped out two towns in North East Minnesota. Up-to-date there have been six deaths. Hundreds are homeless. The inhabitants are fleeing.

COUNTY CRICKET.

LONDON, August 18.

Surrey beat Leicestershire by three wickets. Knight made 93.

Kent beat Nottingham by an innings and 69. Collins took 6 for 18 in one innings and 10 for 65 in the other.

Hampshire beat Worcestershire by 8 wickets. Bowley scored 130, Higgins 118 and Newman 97.

Sussex won by 9 wickets from Lancashire for whom Tyldesley scored 128 not out.

Essex beat Somerset by 5 wickets.

Gloucestershire won by 9 wickets from Glamorgan.

Yorkshire won on the first innings when playing against Surrey. Rhodes made 105.

BAVARIA AND BERLIN.

AGREEMENTS FOUND UNACCEPTABLE.

MUNICH, August 18.

A conference of coalition parties wherein all ministers participated has decided that the agreements between the Berlin and Munich governments are at present unacceptable. The Cabinet has decided to send another Bavarian delegation to Berlin to obtain guarantees regarding the sovereign rights of Bavaria.

[A cable on August 12 stated:—The dispute between the Central and the Bavarian Governments has been settled by a compromise. The latter agreed to withdraw its Ordinance against the Central Government's laws for the defence of the Republic, while the Central Government agreed to respect Bavaria's special laws in the execution of such laws.]

BETRAYER OF PORT ARTHUR.

MORE ABOUT THE TILINSKY AFFAIR.

LONDON, August 18.

With reference to the recent cable from Bern about the so-called Tilinsky affair it is stated that the Japanese documents mentioned have been submitted to one of the leading orientalists in London who pronounced unequivocally in favour of their authenticity while high Japanese officials verified the signature of Prince Arimoto Yamagata on the principal document. The existence of the documents was well-known to the British authorities and a private investigation in regard to them was made in April 1917 by the chief of the metropolitan police magistrate who elicited nothing in any way reflecting upon Tilinsky's bona fides. The statement that Tilinsky raised twenty million francs on these documents is wholly unwarranted.

The previous cable stated:—

The enquiry into the so-called Tilinsky affair has been concluded. The case will now come before the Bernese courts. The indictment says that Igor de Tilinsky, who arrived in Switzerland in 1911, claimed to hold a credit on the Japanese Government for 348,000,000 francs, the price of the alleged betrayal of Port Arthur. He succeeded in borrowing on this pretended credit large sums in Zurich, Bern and other Swiss towns, as he had already attempted to do in England, France, Germany and Belgium. His alleged swindling transactions totalled 20,000,000 francs. Tilinsky on one occasion, in order to convince a lender, produced a document in Japanese, of which experts contest the authenticity.

An enquiry was also conducted diplomatically. The Japanese regard the whole affair as a gigantic swindle.

FOREIGN PROPERTY IN RUSSIA.

NEW YORK, August 18.

The American Press message from Moscow states that Mr. Morgenthau, head of the American delegation, has handed the Soviet Commissary for foreign affairs a note asking whether Khrushchov's offer to the Hague conference to refer to the Russian Government the questions of debts and compensation of foreign owners whose property has been nationalised in Russia also included the Ukraine and other federated republics. The Commissary replied that as the non-Russian delegations definitely rejected the offer the Russian government is forced to consider it non-existent.

CANADIAN MINERS STRIKE.

A SERIOUS SITUATION.

SYDNEY (NOVA SCOTIA), August 18.

The mines at Glace Bay mentioned on August 16, are being flooded in consequence of the pumpmen. It is anticipated that if the inflow continues for three days the mines will be useless for from six months to a year. A deadlock has been reached between the operators and the miners.

BEVAN BROUGHT BACK.

CHARGED AT GUILDHALL.

LONDON, August 19.

Gerard Leo Bevan was charged at the Guildhall with fraudulent conversion and obtaining money by false pretences by inducing people to take shares in the City Equitable Fire Insurance Company and City Equitable Associated through publishing false balance sheets and prospectus. He was remanded in custody.

THE FALL OF THE MARK.

BERLIN, August 18.

The economic council of the Empire has decided by a small majority to increase the assessments on exports corresponding to the depreciation of the mark. The surcharge on customs has been fixed at 17400 per cent from August 23 to 29.

LONDON, August 18.

Marks in London are quoted at 5350.

MAJOR BLAKE'S FLIGHT.

CALCUTTA, August 18.

The departure of Major Blake's companions has again been postponed owing to the seaplane failing to rise. Major Blake has been successfully operated upon.

VETERAN ACTRESS DEAD.

LONDON, August 18.

The death is announced of Genevieve Ward, the veteran actress.

Just great!—for Golf and Walking

ADVERSARIA.

It seems that I have again been unjust, a magistrate complaining in open court that my comments on the "nullah bathing case" were based on a wrong report. The parties were not fined for bathing in a nullah, which is no crime. They were not even charged, as the report that misled me suggested, with disturbing church worship. They were charged with indecent exposure, and for that fined. I do not wish to shelter behind a reporter's mistake, and even now I see nothing to apologise for. I believe in the punishment of those who offend, even though it may be a mental disease than a crime in their case, but I am not sure that innocent exposure while bathing in hot weather should be regarded as criminal. Most people need not look twice. As a friend of mine said, on learning about the case:

This dreary weary world of ours Grows daily ever duller And magistrates fine people who Bathe naked in the nullah.
The Age of Innocence has gone.
Even Cupid must put trousers on.
After all, I suspect it was a false and prudish delicacy (very likely substantial) and not a mistake of the reporter, which led to the observation of official charge. We are all far too squeamish, for a hot and Asiatic country. As far as that goes, there is more criminal provocation in a flapper in a bathroom than in a coolie bathing in a nullah. What does she do? She advertises the romantic possibilities of passion, with some falsettos.

What does he do? He merely advertises the Truth. She is more or less conscious and wilful; he is (I presume) unconscious and inadvertent.
Her designed and refined exposure tempt. His crude revelation does not. Of course this is common-sense, and the other merely convention and law. I am not idiotic enough to expect common-sense to prevail. I do but mention it, as is my duty, leaving results to fate. Perhaps I might insinuate that if the Government had not so ruthlessly robbed the common people of their free and open bathing beaches, these cases of bathing in nullahs might not have arisen. Mind you, I do not think that would be quite fair, because I myself would not go the way to North Point if I knew of a really nice nullah handy.
Nullahs are, however, when the pride is on the prowl. But nullahs me to more nullahs, if I am to write as particularly as Ovidius (Nulla concordia littera mixta ioco est) with care for the sensitive and consideration for the touchy. What humbug!
Well, do I know that my writings are even like the washings of the youths in our nullahs, inasmuch as they must annoy certain species. Well, do I know it, and ill do I repent it.

As a local humorist THE CLUB put it, a certain club is the place where you are bound to meet your boozem friends.

An American publication is quoted in THE CHAIRS support of Mr. Te-tan Tai's well-known hypothesis concerning the geographical location of the Garden of Eden. As it begins by saying "it is the consensus of scientific opinion" I am not impressed. There is no such thing as an ascertainable consensus of opinion in science. The problem, as a matter of fact, is not scientific at all. It is merely philosophic. Science is concerned only with verifiable and demonstrable knowledge, and the location of the cradle of the human race cannot be verified or demonstrated. It is not even known that there was such a thing. By that I mean that the human race may have "originated" in several places.

I believe I owe Sir
James Yoxall
a debt of gratitude for a charming book of essays which I read some years ago—before the war, I think.
So I must not be too severe with him for some indifferent and unfair remarks about internationality. He said, for instance, that "Friendship and unity between nations, each nation remaining itself, was a fine thing and a good thing, but the internationalism which made the life of peoples and nations worth living, would be a bad thing." No internationalist has ever proposed such an impossible or undesirable uniformity; but there may be some dispute as to what are the "natural differences" that make life worth living. Of the genuine internationalist Professor Gilbert Murray wrote in The International Journal of Ethics, long ago, as follows:

"There is, not perhaps in every country, but in most countries of Europe, a small party which does not believe in the supra-national rights of its own countrymen, which values goodwill more than glory, and judges of national honour by standards approaching those by which it judges of personal honour; which believes in international morality, in the cooperation of nations for mutual help, in the ultimate Fraternity of Mankind.
A poor and despised class these in every community—usually described as dreamers, sentimentalists, doctrinaires, hypocrites, traitors,
"friends of every country but their own"—they have at least one advantage over the ultra-patriots: It is an old rule of logic that 'truth by truth is never contradicted.' But the "patriots" of one country by the "patriots" of every other are contradicted always in every item of their creed. Those who are called
"friends of every country but their own" are at least friends of all humanity, and in practice are often the best friends of their own country also. And they agree with one another. In every country of Europe they are pleading on the whole for the same causes and upholding the authority of the same tribunal—the disinterested judgement of each man's conscience in the first place; and, as a Court of Appeal, whenever it is attainable, not the voice of one class, not the voice of one nation, but the disinterested verdict of civilized humanity. Few in each separate country, they are many in all countries taken together. And they will need that thought to comfort them; for in their own homes they will have little popular support or official recompense. They will need often to search their hearts and to steel their courage; and often to remember that famous statesmen and writers and preachers are not necessarily blessed when all men speak well of them; for so did their fathers to the false prophets."

The way I see it is PORK GUILD this. There is no question of anyone's power to "order" an arrest. We all have power to direct a policeman's attention to a breach of law. The law does not concern itself with our motives in so helping it. The motives of the Pork Guild may be self-regarding. All right. For pointing out breaches of the law, the law should thank them, not snub them.
The Pork Guild is the Hongkong Government, and so are you and I, in such a matter. If I give an armed robber in charge, as I certainly would if I could, in Magistrate Hamilton (terribly) going to demand my authority for doing it? If I make a mistake, I am responsible for it, but the law does not punish bona fide mistakes. If selling raw pork under a roast pork licence is an offence, and someone did it, and an interested party called attention to it, and it was proved, there should have been a conviction. But as I have only newspaper reports to go by, I dare say there were factors which influenced the magistrate and of which I am ignorant. In that case, as you were.

Some people may have wondered what TEACHERS it was all about. The position was plain enough. At the meeting of the Board of Education (where his job is to advise the Director of Education and not merely to boost for the University) Mr. Teetoshi Mackindale attacked the Technical Institute, recommended its abolition, and generally tried to "score off" the Director of Education, who admitted a certain defect in the Institute, and had another plan to remedy it. The University Registrar's argument, briefly, was that the Technical Institute (Government institution) had no material on which to practise method (practical teaching) whereas the University had. The China Mail pointed out that the University had no more than the Institute had, i.e., both have to use Government classes and Government teachers of teaching. It was all just a matter of debating methods.
The Registrar was "showing off," and the China Mail was "showing off" too. This might seem "bad for the cause," in for the important matter of "teaching" teaching; but that was suggested by the sensible decision of the Education Board; by which both institutions may go on producing experienced and trained teachers. In short, the good work goes on, while the smarties are arguing and "scoring off" one another.

"Roderick Random's RANDOM" REDIVIVUS

Another difference is that the complaints always. Roderick only faintly twinkles now and then. He appeared in my sky again on Thursday morning, and I was glad because he helped to wallow that official indiscretion which is called the Registration of Persons Bill. Then I was less glad because his wallow did not seem to me quite effusively enthusiastic. He could not wallow the enemy without a whack or two at his friends. At least, that is how I see it. He opened with a reference to "open and cover" whacks at the local constitutional reform programme. The "open" refers to others. The "cover" possibly meant me, as, although my comments have never been enthusiastically for their programme, which is too restricted for my taste. But never once have I consciously spoken for "the retention of the form of local government" that we have. Of course Roderick is "going for" the Telegraph for the main part, and I have never concealed my conviction that Telegraph opinions are invariably wrongheaded and most often asinine—excluding, of course, the shrewd and keenly analytical contributions of The McWhirter, who gave the D.P. scriptural beans the night before. And serve it right, say I for it hasn't been as bold against this twanging as it ought to and could consistently have been, nor as outspoken as it was (may) when peevish by some incidents of strike time. In this case Roderick's argument is not so good as he thinks it is, for the simple reason that he fails to assure us that under a Constitutional Reform Government such as he wants we would be safe from Prussian laws. I am prepared to concede that we might be comparatively safe, but I should like to see the type of legislator it would give us, first. Would Roderick be one? But seriously, if the Bill goes pass, and the Constitutional Reform Association is willing to do so, I

Just as I wrote the beginning of that ME FOR THE last incomplete sentence (in which I believe I was going to promise to double my subscription, or something of the sort) a messenger came to tell me that the Government had dropped the Bill.
I at once dropped my work and rushed to the nearest canteen to celebrate it properly, with Beer.
O Boys! Isn't the China Mail a power in the land? No thanks to the Laodiceans this time. No thanks to anyone but the China Mail and its pivotal correspondents. Before I left the office I persuaded the sub-editor to countermand the usual poster, and get out one like this:

ALONE
WE DID
IT.
A justifiable chord, I think, you'll all agree. But I may as well confess that my prime personal joy is due to the fact that I've saved a disagreeable job. I am old and tired, and don't do more than I'm paid for nowadays; but if the Bill had passed I was going to write a great deal for the Liberal papers at Home, to rouse the country. I didn't want to do it, but I would have been unable to rest until I had.

Things have been said about the Government's indifference to education, public opinion, and so forth. It has been charged with bureaucratic obstinacy. But this shows that it does love us, and does care what we think and feel about things. As soon as it learned that there really was a strong feeling of objection, it dropped the proposal. What more should we ask of any Government? Well, of course, I would have preferred that no British Government should ever have allowed such a project to enter its mind; but there—let's let bygones be bygones, now that it has shown itself true British at bottom. True British is that which, refusing to be oppressed, refrains from oppressing.
The subject, like the blooming Bill, is now dropped. Ho-ray!

The maxim, "do not mortis nil nisi bo-num," is much older than newspapers, and newspapers, and notorious person who dies have deprived it of its binding force. I would be a content to say, nothing, since I cannot truthfully say good, of the late Lord Northcliffe; but I am provoked by the Press references.
Why should the local Telegraph add its sympathetic squeak to the lying chorus? He didn't "know his business from A to Z," and he didn't "speak only through the British Press the world over." It couldn't be genuine anyway, but apart from that, sections of it have been honestly outspoken. That one which spoke of his unprecedented congregation, to which he had nothing particular to say, was neat and accurate. The Telegraph's story of his founding Answers is also wrong.

He founded it on a theory that didn't work, and all that he kept of his theory was the title. For the rest it was a sedulous aping of the original ideas of Sir George Newnes, and a vulgar imitation of his Tribune. The fact is that Northcliffe wasn't a remarkably clever man at all. He came into the game at the ripe moment for him, he had nerve, he was very lucky, he used the brains of clever men who did have workable ideas, and he made money. So did Lipton. So did many more. The plain truth of the matter is that Northcliffe could not write, he had no guiding principles, and nothing to teach except "getting on or getting out." And he did a lot of harm.

I think it fair to NOT QUITE mention that the Ex-ALONE OF active Service Men COURSE did their bit. It may not be newspaper etiquette to disclose this, but the splendid fact is that by far the majority of the China Mail letters were written by them. The E.A.S.
M.A. is the little heaven that will leave the lump. They are a patriotic and public spirited lot of young men, and if they are not bamboozled and misled by one or two reactionaries who sometimes shine at their gatherings, they will be the nucleus of the real army of political progress which will secure the triumph of liberalism and common-sense.

The Government is considering plans for a new and up-to-date ferry service across the harbour. It is proposed to have ferry steamers that will carry wheeled traffic as well as passengers and special plan will be built to accommodate them both, this side and over at Kowloon. This new service will have no connection with the "Star" ferry service; it is thought that there will be plenty of room for both.

The acting Police Judge (Mr. J.
B. Wood) heard further argument by counsel yesterday in the exchange contract action in which the Bank of Canton is suing Mr. Chin Tin-cho, the proprietor of the British Chinese Trading Company. The defence have submitted that there is no case to answer and late yesterday afternoon, after hearing Mr. J. O. Jenkins' reply on behalf of the plaintiffs, His Honour announced that he would adjourn the case without fixing a date. If he decided to call on the defence he would not give reasons at any great length, but he decided in favour of the plea of the defence that there was no case to answer he would give a written decision.

CHILDREN'S CORNER.

THE MONTH OF AUGUST.

Peter had just started learning some Roman history at school and one day when he came home he said to his father, "Daddy we have to find out all about the different people whom the months are named after.
Can you tell me something about August?"

"August," repeated his father,
"Why it is called after the great emperor Augustus Caesar. Do you know anything about him?"

"Yes," answered Peter. "I know that he lived hundreds of years ago and that he was one of the B.C. people."

"That is right," said his father smiling. "He was a nephew of Julius Caesar and was brought up by his uncle whose place he took as Consul of Rome when he was only twenty years of age. He started laying down the law in a somewhat cruel manner and he did not even spare the life of Cicero, his friend. After many battles he established peace all over the world and the temple of Janus, which was always open during times of war, was shut the year that Christ was born."

"Who was Janus?" asked Peter.
"He was the first king of Italy," his father told him. "And he is always shown in pictures with two faces."

"What a funny man," Peter laughed. "Will you tell me about him too please Daddy?"

"Yes I will," said his father. "But first of all we had better finish about Augustus. Augustus died when he had been the head of Rome for forty four years."

"What a long time," put in Peter.
"By and by," went on his father,
"When you read the poems of Virgil and Horace and Ovid you will find much about his good qualities and his learning. He was always very anxious that everyone should think him handsome."

"What a stupid thing!" interrupted Peter who did not care much what he looked like.

"That is what you would call a weakness of his," his father continued.
"He wanted people to think that he was like the god Apollo and it pleased him very much if, when people looked at him, they turned away as if overcome by the brightness of the sun."

This amused Peter very much.
"Anyway he was a great Emperor," finished his father. "Do you think that you will remember anything about him?"

"Oh yes Daddy," answered Peter,
"I shall remember all that easily."

THE RAIN FAIRIES.

The rain fairies fall with a crash to the ground,
They splash on the earth, then jump up with a bound,
I think they must be like my soft rubber ball,
They spring up and down and don't get hurt at all.

One day on my window the rain fairies lay,
I watched them some time when I'd finished my play.
They all seemed so tired and lay there quite still,
I really began to think p'raps they felt ill.

When down came more fairies and gave them a push,
They dropped gently down on my big white rose bush, On the leaves for a moment they twinkled and shone, They slid to the ground.—When I looked they had gone.

ness, clear the complexion, relieve flatulency, the best health tonic, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, are everywhere sold. For those suffering at all from the vital loss of Dr.
Williams' Medicine Co., 200 Essex Street,

GOING HOME.

Inspector R. Hudson, of the Sanitary Department, was invited from the Service and left for England by the "Sardinia" on the 17th. He came to Hongkong from South Africa on September 13, 1904 and was appointed Sanitary Inspector on October 1, 1904. For the past few years he has been employed at the Animal Depots and Slaughter Houses at Kennedy Town—work for which he was particularly well suited in addition to having a good knowledge of animals. Inspector Hudson was a properly qualified Food Inspector.
He was very well known a few years back as the highly efficient instructor of the first Mounted Troop of the Hongkong Volunteers.

Before coming to Hongkong Inspector Hudson had an interesting career in South Africa for some twelve years.

He was appointed "Undersheriff" Officer at Durban in 1892 but resigned from that post in the following year to go into business on his own account at Kimberley. He served with the Kimberley Volunteers in the Matabele War and with Dr. Jamieson in the famous Raid. At the outbreak of the South African War he was in business in Johannesburg but immediately left the Transvaal and enlisted in that famous irregular Corps "Dunant's Horse" with which he served with distinction as R.S.M. till the end of the War. He was wounded in the scrap in which Gen. Methuen was wounded and captured. He had an official appointment in England in connection with the Overseas troops who attended the Coronation ceremonies of His late Majesty King Edward VII.

Returning to South Africa he was employed in the Transvaal on Secret Service work up to the time of his departure for Hongkong. In this work which was difficult owing to the disturbed state of affairs that existed for some time after the finish of the South African war he was very successful and was very highly thought of by Sir Arthur Lawley, the Governor of the Transvaal, who knew him well.
A Yorkshire man and a fine type of Britisher, his departure from the Colonies is much regretted by his many friends.

FIGHT WITH ARMED ROBBERS.

MURDEROUS CRIMINALS.

Three robbers armed with revolvers and carrying torches entered a stone breaker's carted at Saichowan last night and bound and gagged three inmates. They could find nothing of value in the lower part of the matched, so proceeded to climb up the ladder to a cockloft. They were repelled by a shower of stones and bricks by the men sleeping on the loft and forced to retire. One of the robbers fired three shots into the cockloft as he ran away, but no one was injured.

RECENT PIRACY.

SMART WORK BY POLICE.

In connection with the piracy on board the s.s. "Suik" recently, the police have made four arrests and recovered nearly $1,000 worth of property.

Sergeant Shaftain executed a search warrant at No. 5 Sincan Street, Shankwan at 5 a.m. in connection with another matter and found on the premises a quantity of property which was recognised as part of the loot from the "Suik".

The four prisoners were produced before Mr. Lindsell this morning and remanded for a week.

FIRE LAST EVENING.

ONLY A MATSHED.

A fire broke out last evening in a matchbox, occupied by Joke of the Wing Lee contractors, engaged in the construction of the new motor road above the cemetery. The roof of the matchbox was ignited by sparks from some blasting operation on the new site of the Nanyang Bros.
Tobacco Factory, and the structure was soon a huge mass of flames.
Although the firemen attended it was impossible to save the matchbox which was burned to the ground. Damage was done to the extent of $1,200.

TYPHOON WARNING.

THE HIDDEN REGIONS OF THE MIND.

FREUDIAN DOCTRINE ON CRIMINAL INSANITY.

During the discussion of the Ronald True case frequent allusions were made to the supposed influence of Freudian doctrine on the minds of the medical experts who gave evidence during the trial and of those appointed by the Home Secretary to inquire into the state of the prisoner's mind after his conviction. In almost all of these allusions it has been implied that these experts could not have come to the conclusion that True was insane unless they had been imbued with certain doubtful doctrines which they are supposed to have derived from the work of the psycho-analysts. Probably no one was more surprised than the experts themselves that they should have been suspected of Freudian leanings.

Two main imputations have been made concerning Freudian teaching in regard to this matter. In the first place, it has been suggested that there is a peculiarly Freudian view of insanity according to which everyone who shows the slightest signs of mental aberration or abnormality of conduct is regarded as insane. A contemporary says: "According to the Freudian school of psycho-analysis very few persons are, strictly speaking, sane." In the second place, it is implied that psycho-analysts hold that a man who commits a crime cannot help doing so, and that consequently there is no such thing as moral responsibility or just punishment.

There are, however, no grounds whatever for regarding these views as peculiar to or distinctive of psycho-analytical doctrine. Psycho-analysts have no criteria of insanity different from those made use of by psychiatrists in general, and the problem of moral responsibility is not a question of psychology at all and consequently not one in which psycho-analysts are in any way specially qualified to form an opinion.

NO HARD AND FAST LINES IN NATURE. The truth is that both the views which have been wrongly attributed to the psycho-analysts are ways of looking at certain problems of the mind that may be common to many minds. To say that we are all a little insane is merely to subscribe to the well-known dictum that there are no hard-and-fast lines in nature. Mr. Butler said long ago that we are all a little hysterical and no one has ever attempted to deny this statement. In the same sense it may be said that we are all a little insane. It is merely a question of words and the arbitrary drawing of lines, which, for practical purposes, must be drawn somewhere. But there is nothing peculiar to Freudian teaching in this recognition of the vagueness of the boundary between sanity and insanity, although it finds some support in the psycho-analyst's demonstration of the innumerable ways in which the normal man merges into the neurotic and the neurotic into the insane.

The imputation of the denial of moral responsibility by psycho-analysts rests on the fact that they have adopted the ordinary scientific postulate of causation in their investigation of the mind, and hold that all our thoughts and actions are "psychically determined." But this is no new doctrine. In philosophy it is met with as far back as Spinoza at least, and in theology it formed the basis of St. Augustine's conviction that only by grace can man be saved.

The true bearings of Freudian doctrines on crime and insanity can be fully appreciated only by those who make a thorough study of the psycho-analytical theory of the unconscious, and so learn something of the part played in the life of every one of us by this hidden region of the mind. Yet it is perhaps possible to give in a few words a general outline of the principles involved.

THE PRINCIPLES INVOLVED.

The theory of evolution has persuaded us to acknowledge the presence of something of "the ape and tiger in us"—the residual legacy of our pre-human ancestry; and psycho-analysis has been occupied in tracing the evidences of these primitive tendencies in the human mind, and of discovering the way in which civilized man has attempted, more or less successfully, to deal with them. These primitive impulses are part of the innate inheritance of each of us, and psycho-analysts maintain that the energies pertaining to them are indestructible. These tendencies cannot be destroyed or abolished, but they can be banished from consciousness and transformed or "sublimated" so that they find expression in ways that are socially acceptable and valuable. Some of these primitive tendencies are regarded by civilized man as being morally reprehensible or aesthetically undesirable, and some of them as being definitely anti-social. It is these latter more particularly, which, when they come to fruition in adult conduct, are held to be criminal.

The transition from the brute to the human evolutionary history cannot be discussed here, but it must be believed that in the course of ages of cultural development the more distinctly human traits, as well as the more primitive animal tendencies, came to be inherited and in each individual life these inherited human traits, reinforced by training in the moral tradition of civilization, form a system of forces or tendencies in the mind which are opposed to the system of more primitive animal or brutish tendencies. In the growing child these opposed systems come into conflict and, as a result of this conflict, the mind becomes split—the unacceptance of the animal tendencies, and from the nucleus of that region of the mind which Freud calls the unconscious. But although they are repressed and no longer come into consciousness they are not destroyed, and some outlet for their energy must be found.

The normal fate of these repressed tendencies is their so-called sublimation into forms of activity which are acceptable to the individual and to the community. In this way their energies are drained off and flow into channels that lead to all that is best in human life. But when such sublimation is not successful an unconscious conflict ensues between the repressing forces (derived from the moral aspects of social life) and the repressed tendencies which are always trying to get back into consciousness. When the repressing forces partially fail the repressed tendencies may find a disguised, substitute expression in neurotic symptoms. A similar disguise of the nature of the unconscious is found in dreams, for in sleep the repressing forces are less active, and if, in waking life, the repressing forces are reduced to the level to which they normally fall during sleep, the result is "insanity." Insanity is a dream from which the dreamer has not awakened.

When the repression fails more completely, or when it has never attained sufficient power, the primitive tendencies enter undisguised into conscious life and conduct. In the case of impulses directly related to the sexual life this incursion of primitive tendencies is known as sexual perversion; when the impulses are of a manifestly anti-social character the result is "crime."

CHURCH NOTES.

THE TENTH SUNDAY AFTER TRINITY.

If we read the opening chapter of St. Paul's letter to the Corinthians we shall find in verses 6-7, that they had been especially endued with spiritual gifts. He says, "Ye come behind in no gift" yet they had been disputing among themselves, were jealous of one another and divided in their opinions. This is the reason for the teaching in to-morrow's Epistle about the diversities of the Gifts of the Holy Spirit. Certain fruits belong to all Christians given specially at Confirmation. Love, Joy, Peace, Longsuffering, Gentleness, Goodness, Faith, Meekness, and Temperance, but it is of gifts given more abundantly to some than to others, to fit them for special work, that St. Paul speaks here. He himself had a special gift of raising the dead to life, he restored Eutychus—St. Peter, a gift of healing the sick, and he could play too if need arose, Ananias and Sapphira died at his word—and to most of the Apostles was given the special gift of tongues. To the gift of Prophecy, St. Paul attaches a rather different meaning from nowadays when we think of a prophet as one foretelling future events, if we read—Corinthians 14:25 we shall see that he is referring to the ridding of other men's hearts. He draws a distinction between Knowledge and Wisdom, the former an effort made for the understanding of mysteries, the latter a calm possession of truth already acquired and applied. In all he mentions a special gift and tells us to remember that these are not acquired by personal effort but by the grace of the Holy Ghost.

It was immediately after the triumphal procession of palms that Jesus went over Jerusalem and prophesied her destruction, and again the same prophecy comes from His lips on the road to Calvary when He says "Daughters of Jerusalem weep not for me, but weep for yourselves and your children." Then He goes into His Father's Temple, He of Whom it was written "The zeal of Thine house hath eaten Me up" and turns out all men who had come there for any other purpose than prayer.

August 24, is St. Bartholomew's day. It is supposed to be the same as Nathaniel, Bartholomew denoting just "son of Thomas." There is a special Gospel and Epistle for his day but the four Evangelists do not tell us anything further than that he was one of the Twelve. In the Acts we read of him journeying and preaching with St. Philip and the old records tell us that before this he went as far as Northern India and in altered years the Gospel of St. Matthew was found there left by him. Some tell us he was flayed alive, others that he was crucified like St. Peter with his head downwards but whatever the manner of death to the last minute of his natural life we read he was comfortable; and counselling his Gentile converts.

Last Sunday St. Andrew's Church made a special offering in aid of relief at Swatow and this Sunday a similar collection will be made at St. Peter's Church.

The Bishop, it is expected will return to the Colony within the next few days.

TIME WITHOUT CLOCKS.

When the House of Commons was discussing the Summer Time Bill a great deal was heard from representatives of country districts as to the inconvenience to farmers who "had to wait an hour before they could harrow their wheat."

Many of the arguments here evidence of the fact that the agricultural community had no liking for tampering with the clock nor in fact for any interference with the recognized methods of reckoning time. Long before it was possible for any "foul in the forest" to draw a "dial from his pocket," our forefathers watched the sun by day and the stars by night and by the evolutions they could tell you to a few minutes what "time o' day" it was.

"I pray you, what is't o'clock," asked Rosalind, when the accented Orlando in the Forest of Arden. "You should ask me what time o' day," he answered, there's no clock in the forest." Not clocks, indeed with hands dial faces and works but clocks made by nature before ever a clockmaker sat at his bench. Floral clocks these are, which by the unfolding of their petals tell hour by hour the course of the sun. As sunrise the rose-tipped daisy may be seen to the familiar tobacco plant, and as every hour between some lovely bloom to tell the time of day.

HONGKONG TRADE.

EFFECT OF SUN'S DEPARTURE.

MORE HOPEFUL FEELING.

The Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce's fortnightly trade report states:—

Cotton Piece Goods and Fancy Cotton Goods.—

Since the departure of Sun Yat Sen from Canton there is a better feeling as evidenced by improved clearances. There is some enquiry for Blacks at very low prices. Greys and Whites are still neglected.

Cotton Yarn.—There is no improvement in the state of our market although Sun Yat Sen has quit Canton. A trifling business has been done at a decline of about 32 per bale. The lighterment's dispute is still unsettled and it is having a demoralising effect on the market. Prices are purely nominal.

Quotations are:—

No. 10s $150/177, No. 12s $160/180, No. 16s $180/215, No. 20s $190/216. Arrivals all. Shipments nil. Sales 1,000 bales.

Unsold to 16,000 bales. Bargains 10,000 bales.

Woolen.—There is still no business doing. Now that Sun Yat Sen has gone North a more hopeful feeling prevails and it is hoped that the long looked for change will soon come about.

Raw Cottons.—Market quiet and prices are nominal. Indian descriptions at $31/37, Chinese Staple $34/4 per picul.

Metals.—There are yet no signs of demand, although prices from home are offering on a lower basis. Continental exchanges are making it a difficult matter to fix firm prices. Deliveries are also very protracted.

Locally the market is dull and very little at present is moving to the Country. Prices are inclined to sympathy with the lower quotations from London. Most dealers have very full stocks.

Ser p. Steel, Plate Cuttings. 1st Class quality are quoted at $3.50 but market quiet. Large quantities of this class of scrap recently arriving, have been refused delivery. Many parcels can hardly be described as Plate Cuttings. Glasgow Horse-shoes a cask $3.20. Wire Shorts $5.50.

Window Glass.—Market weak due to absence of importative demand. Salted.—Cessation of Canton hostilities has brightened the market.

Flour Market Report.—Stock: About 450,000 sacks.

Quotations:—American Patent $1.75 per sack; American Straight $2.80 per sack; American Cut-off $2.90 per sack; Shanghai Flour $3.00 per sack; Australian No. 1, $2.90 per sack.

WHOSE BIRD?

CONSTABLE BOTH CLAIM CREDIT FOR ARREST.

Filipe Anzelo, the young Filipino who was found under suspicious circumstances in the office of the Pacific Mail S. S. Company, Union Building, at 11.30 on the night of August 1, was yesterday afternoon committed by Mr. E. W. Hamilton to stand his trial at the forthcoming Criminal Sessions on charges of (1) bringing found on the premises with intent to commit a felony; (2) assaulting a Chinese constable with the object of evading lawful apprehension; (3) being in possession of an automatic pistol and six cartridges without the permission of the Captain Superintendent of Police; and, (4) being in possession of a burglar's outfit.

The prisoner who was defended by Mr. Lo d'Almeida, reserved his defence.

The most interesting point in yesterday's hearing was the contradictory evidence of a Chinese and an Indian constable who both claimed the credit of being the first man to arrest the prisoner, as he ran along the Praya followed by the office boy and his two fellows.

On the evidence as given by witnesses for the prosecution, the advantage as to the honour went to the Chinese constable, who also had a mark on his chest where the prisoner had dug his revolver when the constable intercepted him. The C.C. also alleged that the revolver had actually "clicked," but did not go off. Detective Inspector John Grant illustrated to the Magistrate how the click could have happened, and remarked that it was fortunate that though the revolver was fully loaded, there was no cartridge in the chamber.

The Magistrate said he did not think it was the intention of the prisoner to shoot the constable. However, he considered the arrest a very lucky one.

T. An Indian constable steadfastly stuck to his claim that he was the first man to stop the prisoner, although he was previously especially warned by the Magistrate to speak the truth and nothing but the truth, and in spite of the fact that he was given three opportunities to correct his statement, and the seriousness of committing perjury was explained to him.

KOWLOON MATTERS.

WORK OF THE K.R.A.

At recent Committee meetings of the Kowloon Residents' Association, several interesting matters have come up for consideration and action.

With regard to street nuisances, committed by rubbish dealers and others, on which the Committee had been approached and regarding which a letter had been addressed to the Government pointing out the lack of public latrine accommodation, a letter was received stating that the Government had instructed the Police to prosecute offenders and that the question of additional latrines was being considered.

The condition of the playing equipment at the Children's Playground in Chatham Road having become dangerous, the Committee approached the Public Works Department, as a result of which renewals of the "table" have been effected and the equipment is now safe. The Department has also promised to improve the condition of the ground around the swings, etc.

A lengthy communication has also been addressed to the Government in connection with the Budget 1923 which is shortly due to come before the Legislative Council for approval. The Committee has drawn the Government's attention to the following:

Need for more public conveniences. The desirability of the better lighting of the public roads.

The need for general improvements in the Children's Playground so that more covered accommodation can be given in sunny or rainy weather.

The lack of public recreation facilities and the desirability of providing more.

The very much felt want of better bathing facilities.

In this last named connection it has been pointed out to the Government that although Kowloon is bounded on three sides by the harbour there is no opportunity for residents to bathe, except by taking a launch trip. With regard to other improvement schemes, for which the spending of public money has already been sanctioned, the Committee has expressed the hope that the carrying out of the work (including as that does, the Kowloon Hospital) will be as expeditious as possible.

During the period under review a circular letter has been addressed to many Kowloon residents not already members of the Association, urging them to join. As the result of this circular there has been a gratifying increase in membership.

Gives a Glorious Sensation of Vigour and Well-being

The more highly-strung your nerves are, the more quickly they will respond to the intense invigorating effect of Sanatogen. But even the dullest nerves respond to it in time—feel the powerful access of energy that Sanatogen brings, and derive from it a new tone and elasticity.

Mr. Horace Hazeltine, the well-known novelist writes: "Since I took my first cup of Sanatogen there has been a day-by-day gain in activity and energy. In less than a month it has wonderfully improved my condition. My appetite is healthy, I sleep like an infant, and awake each morning to the fresh joy of living."

Take your first cup of Sanatogen to-day. And remember that it is no mere stimulant—producing reaction and other ill-effects—but a safe physiological restorative that has been proved to re-create nerve force, hence the delightful feeling of vitality and freshness which it imparts.

Sanatogen is made at the nearest chemist's. Made by the original inventors, A. Walling & Co.
